ULSTER COUNTY
NEW YORK

BREATHTAKING BEAUTY. OUTSTANDING FISHING. CAST YOUR LINE IN ULSTER COUNTY.

The shimmering waters of the Catskills attract anglers from far and near, who come to Ulster County to experience some of the best fishing in the northeast. The unspoiled lakes, streams, ponds and rivers vibrate with an abundance of species. With headwaters deep in the mountains, numerous streams wind through hills and valleys shaded by the lush forests of the Catskill preserve, creating an ideal environment for trout to thrive.

Trout might be the main draw, but there's no shortage of largemouth, smallmouth and striped bass, northern pike, pickerel, walleye, yellow perch and other popular pan fish. Tiger muskies, hybrids of a musky-northern pike cross, add an exciting dimension to Ulster County's fishing experience.

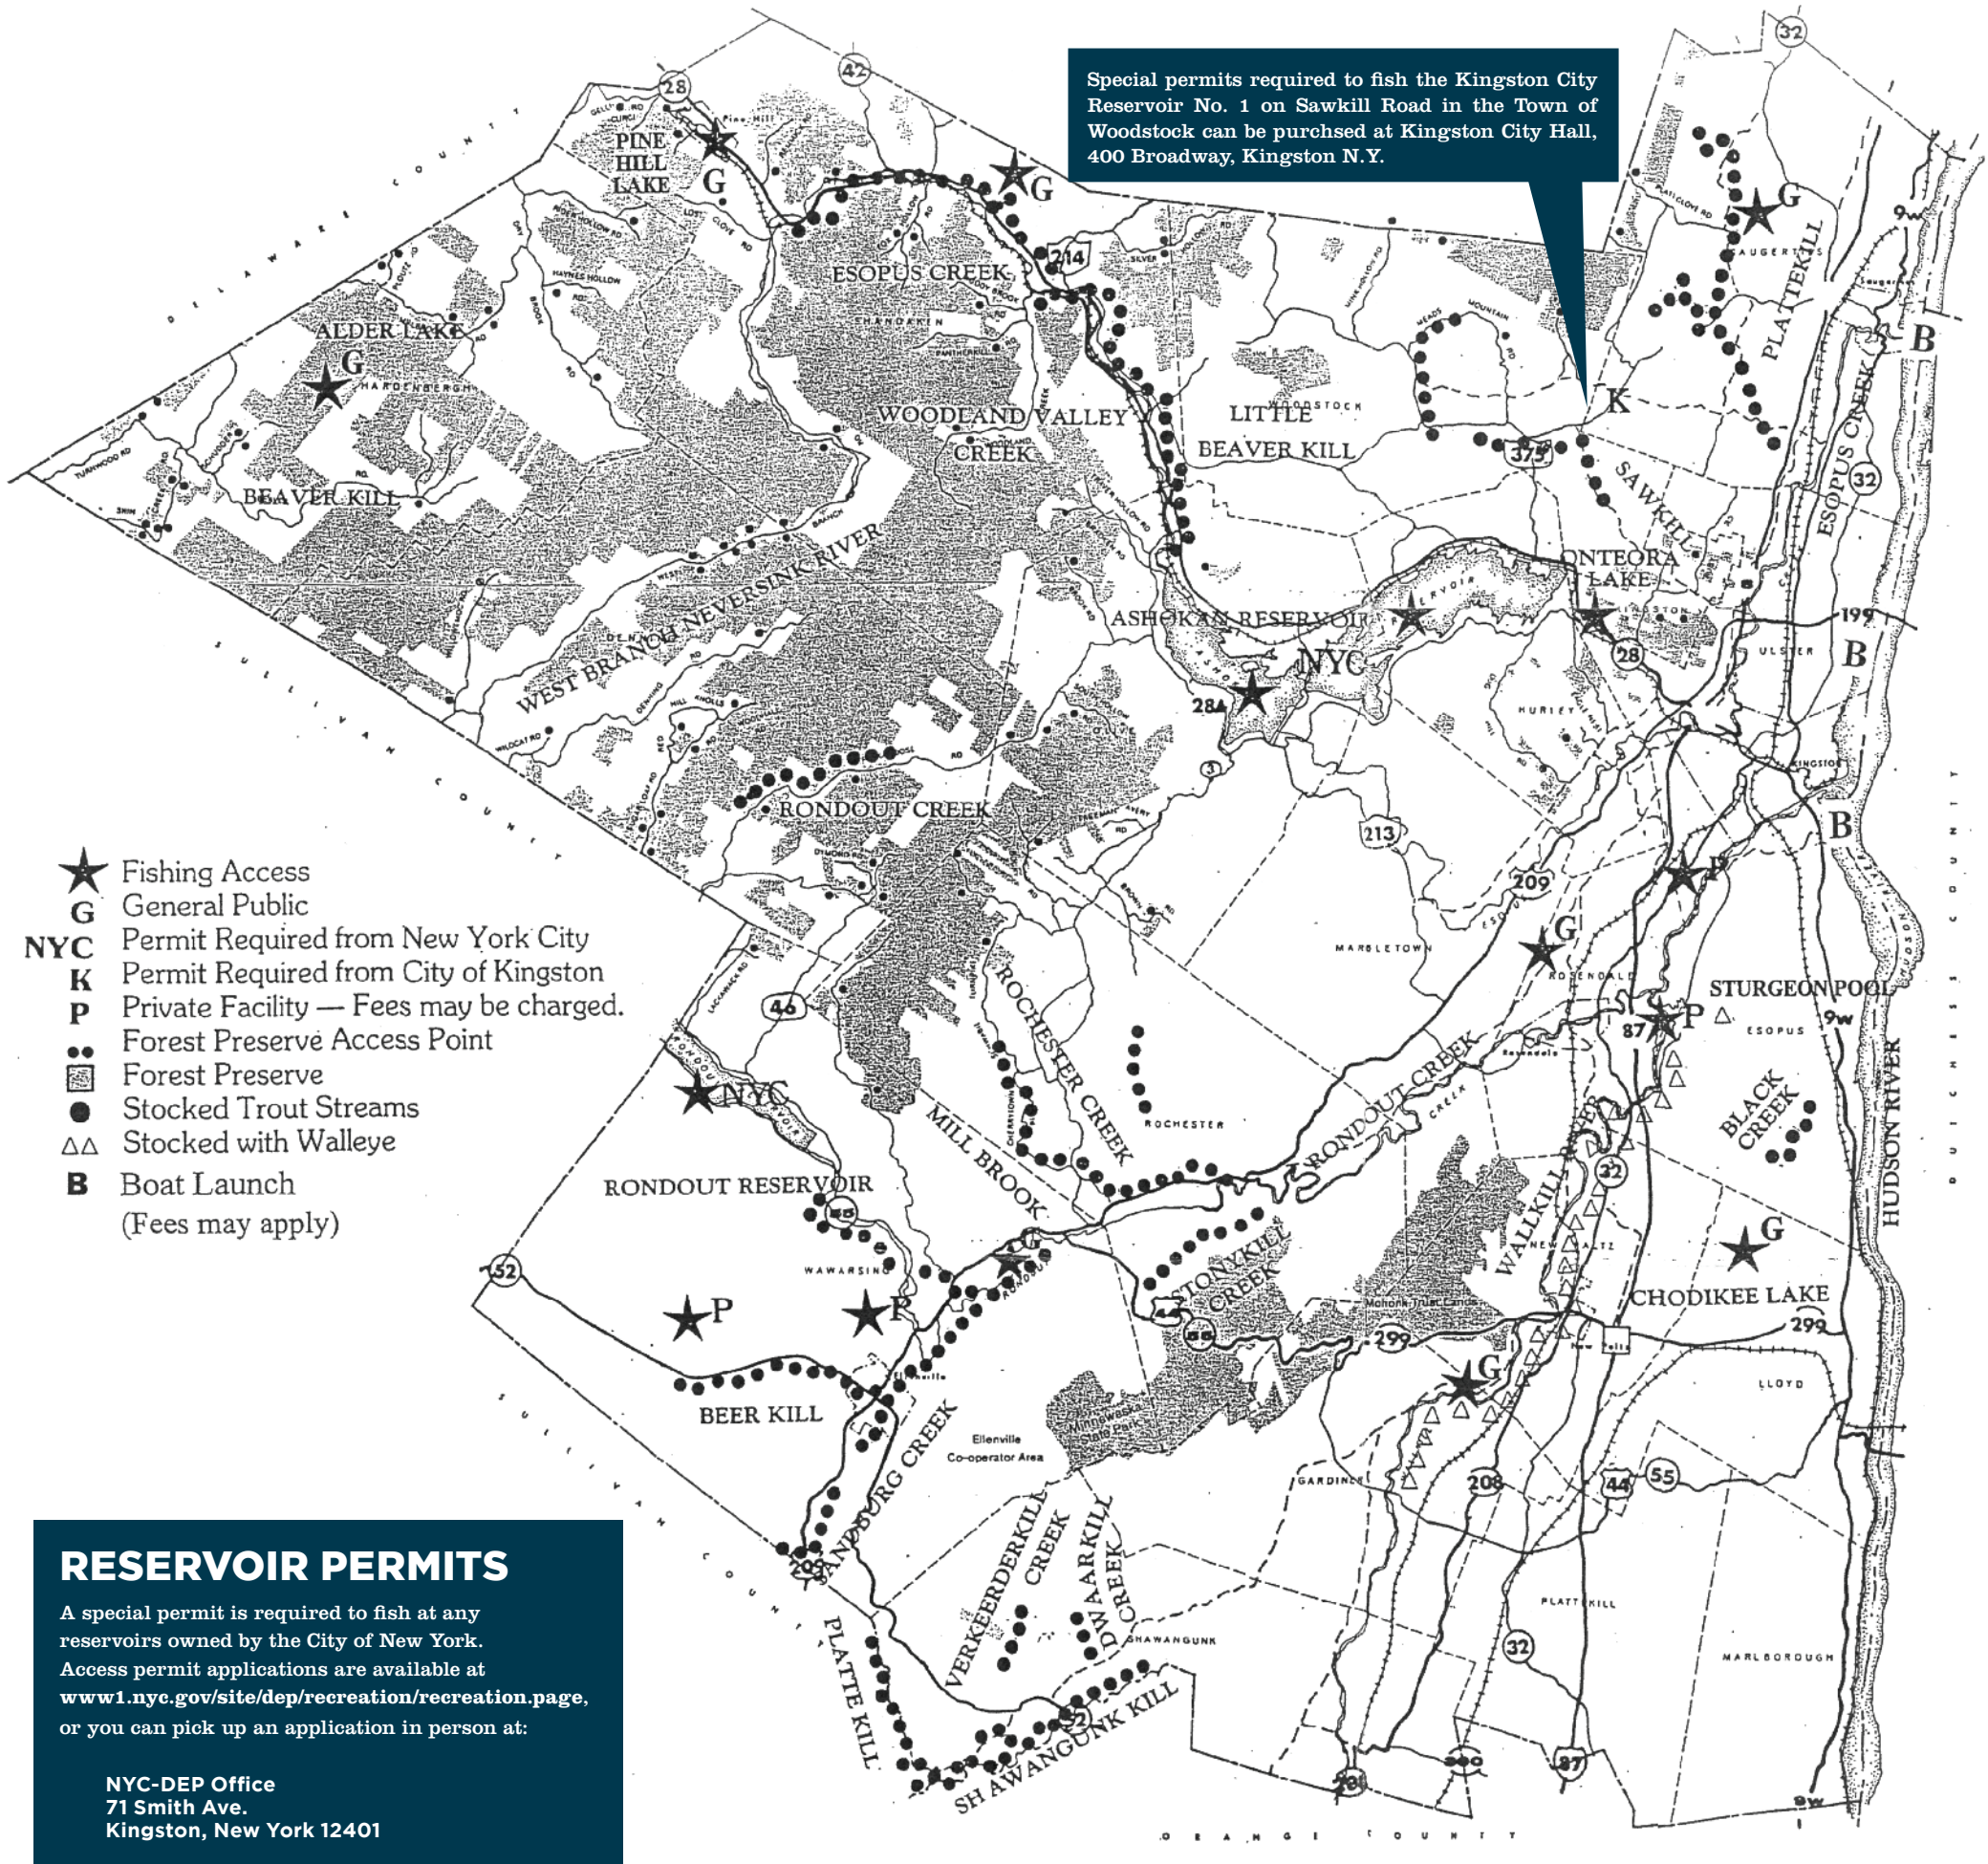

We're privileged to share the shoreline of the Hudson River, where superlative game fish abound and numerous festivals and fishing contests bring anglers from around the world. Fishermen in the many bass tournaments on the river report that the Hudson is one of the best bass waters anywhere.

April and May offer outstanding striped bass fishing in the Hudson River and its tributaries.

According to general regulations, persons 16 years of age and older must possess a valid New York State fishing license, available at Department of Environmental Conservation offices, town clerks' offices and select sporting goods stores. A special permit is required to fish the New York City reservoirs.

All regulations appear in the New York State Fishing, Hunting and Trapping Regulations Guides available where licenses are issued.
